

My name is Sarah, and I am a full-time college student and staff member with Liberty University.

I fell in love with the guitar at a young age and wanted to grow up to be a "rockstar". I began playing the instrument when I was 9 years old, and started formally taking lessons with KeslerGuitar when I was 15 and continued for about 3 1/2 years. During that time, I became a very skilled musician and successful student; I eventually pursued a career in music: I was a worship leader for about 6 years, attended a small Christian institute for 2 years studying guitar performance (and maintained a 4.0 GPA ),

I played guitar (and bass) with a Christian rock band, and currently write, perform, and record my own music. KeslerGuitar prepared me to succeed by teaching a versatile method that I was able to apply to all of my musical interests.

I would recommend Scott as a teacher because he is engaging, encouraging, and experienced. Whether you want to become a professional musician, a better student, or just pursue a hobby, there is no one better I could recommend.
